- Before the Russian military intervention, the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights found that more than 14,000 people had been killed in the ongoing conflict in Donetsk and Luhansk despite the Minsk Agreements. It is this violence that provokes Kovalevich to make his comments about the violence of the ultra-nationalists and the right-wing paramilitary. "The elected authorities are a cover, masking the real rulers of Ukraine," Kovalevich says. Zelensky and his allies in the parliament do not drive the governing process in their country but have "an agenda imposed on them by the far-right armed groups.

- Negotiations are ongoing on the Ukraine-Belarus border between the Russians and the Ukrainians. Kovalevich is, however, not optimistic about a positive outcome from these negotiations. Decisions, he says, are not made by the Ukrainian president alone, but by the right-wing ultra-nationalist paramilitary armed groups and the NATO countries.

- As Kovalevich and I were speaking, The Washington Post published a report about "Plans for a US-backed insurgency in Ukraine"; former US secretary of state Hillary Clinton implied an Afghanistan-style guerrilla war in Ukraine, saying, "We have to keep tightening the screws.... This reveals that they [the US] don't really care about Ukrainians," Kovalevich says.
- "They want to use this as an opportunity to cause some pain to the Russians." These comments by Clinton and others suggest to Kovalevich that the United States wants "to organize chaos between Russia and the Europeans." Peace in Ukraine, he says, "is a matter of reconciliation between NATO and the new global powers, Russia and China."

- Rep. Madison Cawthron (R-N.C.) broke from his party's support for Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy and told supporters the embattled leader is a "thug," newly released footage of the remarks shows. "Remember that Zelenskyy is a thug," Cawthorn, 26, says in the clip obtained by North Carolina TV station WRAL on Thursday. "Remember that the Ukrainian government is incredibly corrupt and is incredibly evil and has been pushing woke ideologies."

- Zelenskyy is backed by the CIA, the Globalist banking cartel, numerous Ukrainian oligarchs and the Neo-Nazi Azov Battalion. Like Zelenskyy, the Azov Battalion's key backer is the infamous Ukrainian oligarch, Ihor Kolomoyskyi. This is so, despite the fact that both Zelenskyy and Kolomoyskyi are Jewish.

- Zelenskyy's and Kolomoyskyi's names appeared prominently in both the Panama Papers and the Pandora Papers.

- On February 23rd, Ilia Kyva, a member of the Ukrainian parliament... posted on Telegram that Zelenskyy has accumulated more than $1.2 billion US dollars during the first two and half years of his presidency, stored in multiple accounts at Dresdner Bank Lateinamerika in Costa Rica, saying: "Regular replenishment in ragged tranches of $12 to $35 million comes through various channels, such as from Rinat Akhmetov and Viktor Pinchuk through First Union Bank and Deutsche Bank, as well as Ihor Kolomoyskyi from his Geneva accounts at Banque Nationale de Paris,"

- Kyva posted on his Telegram channel, saying: "Every president and his team, after his tenure, walked away as dollar billionaires, and Zelenskyy... was no exception, just in his case, no one will let him just walk away."

- Kyva says that the movement of such funds would be impossible without the assent of the German and French authorities and he vows to prosecute Zelenskyy. Kyva also claims that Zelenskyy bought a villa in Miami for $34 million, as well as several sets of jewelry for $5.6 million. George Webb, reporting from Miami is following this trail, saying he visited Zelenskyy's Miami property, near the Kazakh Consulate there.

- According to Ukrainian Government officials, a Chechen team led by Chechnya's leader, an ardent supporter of Vladimir Putin, was about to assassinate Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelensky, but Russia's Government passed along to Ukraine's Government the information that this team were in Ukraine and were intending to assassinate him; and, so, that team were killed by Ukraine's Government forces.... if the news-accounts of this recent assassination-attempt against Zelensky are entirely true, then Putin would, on March 1st, have been actually defeating an FSB action that was in violation of his own command...

- So: how likely is it that... Ukrainian Government's public statements about the assassination-attempt... [are] true? The other (and, in my opinion, far likelier) interpretation is that Putin (and the FSB hierarchy) had saved Zelensky's life... in a way that enables Zelensky's Government to present the matter as having... been a 'Russian' attempt to kill him, and therefore as Zelensky's heroically leading Ukrainians against Russia, and against Putin's invasion... This interpretation makes sense... because the actual overwhelmingly top source of the assassination-danger to Zelensky has been — not only now, but ever since he became elected — Ukraine's racist-fascist or nazi anti-Russian forces, which have been demanding that Ukraine invade Donbass, and which have supplied the troops to do it.
